

About Our Group

The Melbourne Linux Users Group, Inc. is a not-for-profit Florida corporation founded to advocate and support Linux and related Open Source software in and around Melbourne, Florida. It has over 80 individual and corporate members.

The MLUG has been helping people install, use and learn about Linux and related Open Source software since January, 1999. They have sponsored many different kinds of events, including Install Parties where people bring their computers to install Linux on them, seminars, presentations and showcases.

This group was started to fulfill the following objectives:

- * Provide a forum for the exchange of knowledge, techniques and data regarding Linux and other related Open Source software.

- * Provide a framework for supporting Linux operating system installations in community venues and schools where quality help is not always affordable.

- * Provide a portal to local businesses which support the Linux operating system.

- * Provide regular, free installation help, training, and seminars on Linux and other related Open Source software.

To accomplish these goals, the group maintains a website and mailing lists to provide support and to allow communication between members. The group also supports Special Interest Groups or SIGs to allow members to learn more about topics of interest.

The use of Linux in business has increased and so has the demand for professional support. Our group acts as a meeting place for businesses or individuals needing professional support and companies in the area that provide support. We also help our members find jobs by giving them a forum to announce their availability and skills.

When you think of Linux in Brevard County, think of the Melbourne Linux Users Group, Inc.
